

Congratulations Henry Burroughs

Winner of the 1993
Kodak/White House
News Photographers'
Association
Achievement Award

Above: The Kodak/White House News Photographers' Association Achievement Award—a polished Steuben crystal eagle—is given annually to a member of the White House News Photographers' Association in recognition of outstanding service to the organization and achievement in the field of photojournalism. Designed by James Houston, the eagle is an especially appropriate figure for this award, since it has long been a symbol of American strength and leadership. Recent recipients include Larry Krebs (1987), Maurice Johnson (1988), Ken Blaylock (1989), Paul M. Lyons (1990), Bernie Boston (1991), and George Tames (1992).

Background photo: Henry Burroughs and other members of the press corps wait for a shot inside the Senate caucus room.